Why An Expert Configuration?

Network switches may work right out of the box, but if you care about security and performance, you know that a wide open device means wide open doors for threats and potential failures. So you know you need to customize your setup, but you also know it's a complex process to get it configured. Whether you have an IT staff or you don't, the time it takes to get ready for deployment can be better spent on day-to-day tasks. Both Gartner and the Ponemon Institute agree, human error is the most likely cause of system failure, which can cost your business time and money.

Our team of experts is here to help. The skilled engineers at Firewalls.com will work with you and your staff to survey and review your network topology, then configure your switches to optimize your network within those parameters. You'll get a custom configuration, establishing the foundation your network will be built upon. You can count on a logically organized network that optimizes performance and keeps your sensitive data safely siloed. You can rest assured your attack surface is minimized as our team will only enable the ports you'll be using.

Once you've gotten your switches professionally configured, you can also turn to our experts to manage them. Opt for Switch Management, and they'll handle any changes you need to fit your growing business, provide network health & reliability metrics, unparalleled device control, port state changes, and unlimited support.
