The Benefits of Switch Management

Network switch configuration is a complex process, and each IT professional may approach it in a different way. That means if employees leave, their unique approach to network setup may leave with them. With switch management through Firewalls.com, our experts won't leave you high and dry. You'll have documentation every step of the way, from the professional setup to any changes over time - and you'll get regular metrics so you'll always know how your network is performing.

Switches are the foundation of your network, and our engineers will ensure that foundation is both built to last, and built to grow. Your initial setup will change as your business changes - that may mean adding a wireless network, VOIP, VLANs, or any number of other new features, and your switches will be ready. Our experts will take care of port management and port state changes - enabling only the ports that are actively connected and disabling those that are currently unused.

When your firewall identifies suspicious activity, we'll jump into action to isolate and stop the threat, preventing it from spreading. Your network will be scalable to fit your evolving needs, remaining organized, efficient, & secure without sacrificing performance. Speaking of organized, you don't want your sensitive financial information in the same place as your general email client. Our engineers will work to safeguard your information, while also dedicating the most resources to the servers that need it most.

Have Firewalls.com manage your network switches to make a complex challenge simple. And when you do have questions, give us a call and we'll be here to answer them.
